

May 19, 2017, 7:51am EDT

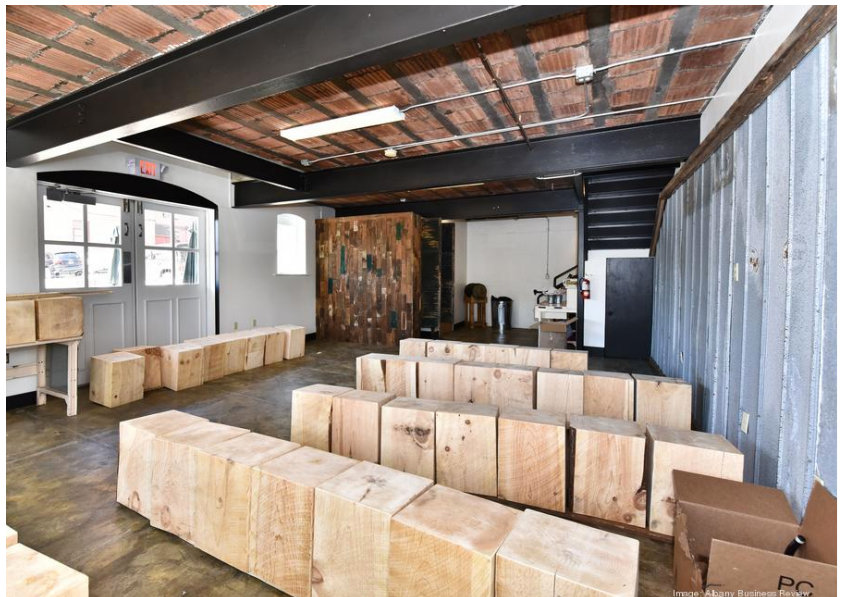

New place to grab brunch in Saratoga Springs, and more in this week's restaurant news

Chelsea Diana / Reporter / Albany Business Review

New place to grab brunch, and another to have a beer

Two new restaurants in downtown Saratoga Springs are planning to open this summer, before the track season starts in July. Check out the slideshow for more.

The Sinclair at 17 Maple Ave. will have a beer garden with an indoor restaurant and bar, arcade area and an event space, which is open now for booking. That restaurant is run by Hilary Morrison, who recently moved to Saratoga from Los Angeles with her family.

At 35 Maple Ave., another restaurant, Farmers Hardware, is opening in a building that has been vacant. Farmers Hardware will serve brunch in a fast-casual setting. That restaurant is being developed by Julia Sanzen, a Saratoga Springs native who has been working for the last few years in New York City, and Tyler Russell, the co-owner and CEO of Storied Boards.