

STORIEDBOARDS EXPANDS ITS RECLAIMED LUMBER BUSINESS IN LAKE GEORGE

Posted by: Noah Milligan

LAKE GEORGE, N.Y. — Reclaimed lumber manufacturer StoriedBoards will be opening a second location in Lake George.

Founded in 2012 by Tyler Russell, StoriedBoards plans to use the second facility to construct fireplace mantels from reclaimed lumber from historic structures located in the Northeast. Currently, the company's customers mainly reside in New York and New England; however, the new location will allow StoriedBoards to service clients as far away as California.

In addition to mantels, the company manufactures and sells flooring, beams and barn board from historic structures marked by a rustic character. Then company caters to both commercial and residential projects, with clients that include Silverwood Home and Gallery in Saratoga Springs, Algonquin Restaurant in Bolton Landing and the L.L. Bean Outlet in Lake George.

Source: Albany Business Review